

For problematic parts that need to be replaced more often, we offer Rein First Aid.

Rein Automotive has built its reputation on providing OE-quality replacement parts for European vehicles. Our offerings have always focused on giving the market access to full programs of products that are commonly replaced on vehicles.

But what about those problematic parts that have a high failure rate on some vehicles, but not on others? Parts that don't fit into regular product programs. That's where our Rein First Aid program comes in. By cherry picking parts based on repair frequency rather than by product group, this program guarantees you'll always have the parts professional repair technicians frequently need to replace — in stock. In other words, with our Rein First Aid Program there's only one place professional repair technicians will have to look to get the parts they use the most — your place.
